| CALENDARDESCRIPTION:   | An examination of the development of astronomical/cosmological ideaswithin a historical framework. Basic astronomical concepts will be introducedas required. Topics will span recorded human history, from early man's viewof the sky through to current understanding of the cosmos. No formalbackground in astronomy is assumed. Credit will only be granted for one ofASTR 211 or ASTR 312. (3:0:0)  |   |  |
| OBJECTIVES &LEARNINGOUTCOMES:  | Astronomy 312 is a detailed examination of the development of modernastronomical ideas within a historical framework. Both traditional (western)and non-traditional influences on astronomy will be discussed. Basicastronomical concepts are introduced as required. The content spans recordedhuman history, from early man's view of the heavens to our most recentexplorations of the cosmos. The course stresses conceptual understandingand class discussion regarding the evolution of modern astronomy, withminimal mathematical derivation. Quizzes and exams emphasize descriptivematerial and an understanding of course concepts. Students are expected tobe able to apply their knowledge of the connections between historicalpersons, time periods and viewpoints to construct original, well supportedwritten arguments on a variety of related astronomical topics. The grouppresentation invites students to identify & research a specific, detailed topicof astronomical interest and work with a group to effectively communicatethat information to the class. By the end of the course students should beconversant regarding the nature of scientific enquiry, be able to articulate thedifferences between astronomy, recall factual information regardingmajor figures & events in the evolution of astronomy and discuss the currentstate of space exploration. | FAILINGGRADES:ACADEMICINTEGRITYPOLICIESSTUDENTRESPONSIEDI & CODOF CONDU |  |
